Mr. Elwell also inspected the State highway construction in Fairfield avenue for the city, and said the city would receive a check of $1,000 as final payment of the railroad's part of the cost. The city has spent between $10,000 and $15,000 this year placing Fairfield avenue in condition. This expenditure made a big hole in the $20,000 appropriation for macadam repairs.

(Special from United Press.)
 Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23.—The question of the removal of the statue of General Robert E. Lee from Statuary Hall in the National Capitol, was debated by the G. A. R. this afternoon. It arose over a resolution requesting the removal. The encampment decided today to admit to membership in the G. A. R. men of the revenue cutter service who saw service during the Civil War.

ROOSEVELT IN CONTROL PICKS MEN

(Special from United Press.)
 New York, Sept. 23.—Apparently satisfied of his ability to control the state convention next week, Colonel Roosevelt today called in his up-state lieutenants for the purpose of looking over the gubernatorial timber. At the end of the consultation, Senator Davenport of Onondaga, loomed up as the most likely of a number of possibilities.

John A. Schleicher, for a number of years prominent in Republican affairs and recently the editor of Leslie's Weekly, probably the most conservative and pro-corporation of the big magazines, had a long conference with the Colonel. Schleicher has been framing a tentative state platform and discussed his work on it up to this time with Roosevelt.

James B. Reynolds, the sociologist, has been framing labor planks along progressive lines, in accordance with what Roosevelt wants.
